ONE YEAR. SIX MONTHS WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 15, 1897.

The Democrate, Populists and silver Republicans of Nebraska have all joined hands on the State ticket.

The Atlanta Constitution advises the farms s to gather and house their crops as early and thoroughly as possible this year. The same advice would hold good for every year.

According to a Kansas newspaper man, who says he has been an officer in the Cuban army, hunger is hurting the Cabans more than General Weyler has ever been able to.

An exchange is eminently correct when it says the farmer who is making his land richer every year is laying up the best bank account possible. Robbing the soil for present profits is never practiced by good farmers.

The News and Courier's Annual Trade Review, issued last Friday, makes a fine showing for Charleston. It is thorough and exhaustive, and shows an increase of $8,500,000 in the city's commerce during the past year. All the information from Maryland concurs in the opinion that the State wil be triumphantly brought back into the line of its ancient and time-honored faith of sound Democracy as soon as the will of the people can be expressed at the ballot-The Columbia Record is right when it says: 'White the primary system is in fashion, we think it would be well to let the counties decide for themselves who shall be their magistrates. This plan relieves the Governor of a lot of annovan and, in some cases, censure." You can't get ahead of the women. An ordinance was passed and enforced in Atlanta recently egainst the high hat in the theatre. The women submit gracefully to taking off their big hats, but now they have appealed to the city council to stop the nuisance of rushing out for drinks between acts as practiced by the men. They are right, of course, and it may turn to be two reforms instead of

Dr. Audrew P. Montague, of the Columbian University, Washington, D. C. has been elected President of Furman University. The Board of Trustees met in Columbia last week to select a President, and Dr. Montague was the unanimous choice. He has accepted the position and will af once assume charge of Furman. The Trustees are being congratulated by the friends of the institution in the wisdom shown in selecting Dr. Montague

A comparative statement of the sale of liquor by the State dispensary for the month of August, 1897, with the same month last year shows a balance of $4 .-002.83 in favor of the former. The sales for the past month amounted to $72,712.46. while those of August of last year were $67,703.53 Commissioner Vance has State Treasury. From these figures it seems that the original package stores are not cutting into the dispensary sales very extensively.

A movement is on foot in Europe, proposed by Germany, to form a combination against American goods, a kind of tariff union, in retaliation against the American protective tariff. We see no reason why such an effort should not be made. The American tariff is avowedly designed to protect American manufacturers against the sale in this country of foreign manufacturers. The foreign manufacturers have a like right to protection against American manufactures and productions. If this line of action should be adopted we should hear a howl from the American producers which would make the advocates of protection feel very sad indeed.

The returns of cotton indicate the average condition on September 1st as 78.3, a decline as compared with August 1st of 8.6 points. It is owing to the drought so long prevalent throughout the greater portion of the cotton belt, followed in many important sections by excessive rains which have done great damage to the crop. There has been a marked decline in almost all the States. There is a decline in Georgia of 15 points; Arkansas 13; Louisiana 12; Texas, Alabama and South Carolina 8; Tennessee 77; Mississippi 4; North Carolina 2. The average of States are as follows: Virginia 90, North Carolina 95, South Carolina 84, Georgia 80, Florida 86, Alabama 80, Mississippi 81, Louisiana 78, Texas 70, Arkansas 77, Tennessee 77, Missouri 81, Indian Territory 93, Oklahoma, 95.

Pitched Battle.

SENECA, S. C., Sept. 13 .- A regular pitched battle took place at a Negro camp meeting three and a half miles from Seneca at a place called Bethel Grove, near the Blue Ridge railroad, Saturday night and early Sunday morning. The row started Saturday night by two Negroes getting into a difficulty and exchanging shots at each other but no harm was done. They then quarreled all night among themselves until early Sunday morning, when the climax was reached. The Negroes had selected sides and all were armed to the teeth. They fired regardless of women and children. The excitement was at fever heat. Women and children took to the woods screaming. Horses were hitched up to vehicles and hurried away from the spot as soon as possible. Four or five Negroes were abot. One was so badly hurt that he died from the effects of his wounds. The other Negroes' wounds are not considered. Negroes' wounds are not considered dangerous. As soon as the news reached here, the sheriff was telegraphed for. He arrived on the scene of battle soon afterwards with a number of assistants, and ten or more of the participants were caught and hurried off to jail.

It is thought by a great many that the affair was premeditated, as each Negro carried from one to four pistois. It is needless to say that the Negroes were drunk. Whiskey flowed as freely as water. The same trouble occurred at this place of the water in the contract of the same trouble occurred at this place of worship just one year ago, but Cotton in the Fields.

WASHINGTON, September 10.—The re-turns for cotton to the department of agculture indicate an average condition of 783 on September 1, as compared with 86.9 on August 1, a decline of 8 6 points. The average condition September 1, 1896, was 64.2 and the average condition on September 1, for the last ten years, is 79.2. There has been a marked decline in almost all the States of principal production, the decline in Georgia being 15 points, in Arkansas 13, in Louisiana 12, in Texas, Alabama and South Carolina 8, in Tennessee 7, in Mississippi and North Carolina 2 points.

The only exception to the rule is Oklahoma, where the conditions show an improvemen of 9 points. The drought that so long prevailed throughout the greater portion of the cotton belt has been followed in many important sections by excessive rains which have done great damage to the crop.
Rust and shedding are reported from hundreds of counties and the statement "no top crop" is frequent. The averages of the States are as idlows: Virginia 90, North Carolina 95, South Carolina 34, Georgia 80, Florida 86, Alabama 80, Mississippi 81, Louisiana 78, Texas 70, Arkansas 77, Tennessee 77, Missouri 81, Indian Territory 93, Oklaho-

The Dispensary Law.

Perhaps the most important and intersting question now before the tablic h outh Carolina is the fate of the Dispensary law. The general opinion of the best lawvers in the State is that Judge Simonton's decisions will be sustained by the United Supreme Court when they come before it, and that the law, as it now stands, will have to go. The next session of the Legislature will have to handle the question, and with a view of ascertaining the opinion of the members of the body on the subject, the News and Courier has sent a circular to each one asking his solution of the matter. Many replies have been received and publishion have been heard from, as follows:

ed, and, of course, there is great diversity of opinion. Two of the Anderson delega-I would say that I have always been opposed to the Dispensary as at present administered, and I am in favor of making a change of some kind. The plan that I would now suggest is for each County to take charge of and regulate its own dispensary affairs, by men of their own selection, and a good healthy senti-ment will thereby be built up in favor of the dispensary, and we will not need the presence of armed constables to enforce the law, but it will be self-enforcing, being supported by the law-abiding people of the County.

The good features of the Dispensary are already incorporated in the Constitution. Whilst I am talking I want to say that I think the next Legislature should take he special tax off fertilizers or it should be donated to the common schools, that re patronized almost exclusively by the people who pay the tax.

JOSHUA W. ASHLEY.

My opinion is that the present dispen-sary law will be radically changed or reealed in toto by the General Assembly at its next session. It will hardly bear any more patching. It was an experi-ment, holding its place by a precarious tenure, until struck by a foul from the United States Court, in consequence o which blow it is now indefensible as an effective measure for revenue or good norals. The late Constitutional Convention, composed of many able, patriotic and conservative men, fully comprehendary system was a doubtful experiment and the delegates by a decided vote declined to fix the dispensary system as an institution on the State. Certain wise and effective provisions were grafted from the dispensary law into the new onstitution which prohibit sales of alcoholic liquors in the night time or by the ing on the premises where sales are made, confining sales to unbroken packages and giving to the State absolute con-trol of the traffic; all of which preclude a return to the obnoxious "old bar room system," except by a vote of the people amending the fundamental law. The dispensary, though disappointing, has done good, but now I see no future good for it. The inevitable is upon us, and the Legislature may well as meet the is-suesquarely next January. There may be on to repudiate the entire disensary law, even if we are forced to give up the dispensary. We may adopt a law incorporating all that is sound and effective in the dispensary Act; call it high li-cense or what we please, but take the State out of this questionable business of selling liquor, and by no means should we put the Counties into it. Let the State, through county boards of control, super rise closely this traffic, conducted under high license by reputable individuals. Rive the State full powers to restrict and estrain liquor selling within proper and possible limits. There is no good in attempting the impossible. Some such Act, if passed, will at once commend itself to the favor of all reasonable people, without which public approval all legislation on this line is vain. A proper high license system will do away with State boards of control. liquor commissioners, metropolitan police and the constabulary and at the same time provide a reliable source of revenue with s much or more moral good as is attainble under any law regulating the drink will certainly be one of mercy unto the Attorney General's office. It will relieve the Executive of heavy burdens and the people from an unhealthy strain.

A local option provision should be incorporated in the law, so that any and all communities prepared for prohibition may have it. J. M. SULLIVAN.

Longstreet Marries.

ALLANTA, Sept. 8.—Gen. James Long-street, Major General in the Confederate army, former United States Minister to Turkey and prospective Commissioner of Railroads to succeed Gen. Wade Hampon, was married at the executive mansion on Peachtree street at 3;30 o'clock this afternoon to Miss Ellen Dortsch, Assistant Librarian of the State of Georgia, Governor and Mrs Atkinson had issued a limited number of invitations to State flicials and intimate friends of the bride and groom. These formed a distinguished party which filled the blue room of the mansion, where the ceremony was performed. The Rev. Schadowell, of the Church of the Immaculate Conception officiated. Judge J. B. Gaston, mayor of Gainesville, Gen. Longstreet's home, was best man, and the bride entered on the arm of Governor Atkinson, who gave her away in the absence of her brother, who is in Texas. Gen. and Mrs. Longstreet Ga., after which they will return to Atlants, where Mrs. Longstreet will resume her duties as Assistant Librarian. It is the race for the Librarianship, which she entered several months ago.

A striking coincidence was supplied by the fact that to-day is the anniversary of the battle of Molina del Rey, in Mexico, where Gen. Longstreet won his title as Practical Joker Shot.

An atlempt of Ella Kizer, a colored woman who lives four miles from the city and near Dent's mill, to play a practical joke Wednesday afternoon, resulted in the joker getting painfully shot in the leg. The woman had sent her daughter to mill. The girl staid longer than Ella thought necessary, so she set out to find her. She had not gone far on the way when she saw the girl at some distance coming along the road accompanied by Mack Hunter, a negro man.
Some bushes bordered the roadway and seeing that she was unperceived, Ella concealed herself in them with the inten-ion of giving the approaching couple a As they got abreast of her place of concealment, Ella gave the bushes a violent shake, at the same time attering unearthly sounds. She succeeded better than she desired, for Hunter drew his pistol

The screams of Ella, as she sank to the ground, told that Hunter had aimed better than he knew. No prosecution will follow as the shot was the outcome of a practical joke.—Colum-

Believed in the Credit System.

Here is a little story from real life: A negro rented a farm from a man who had a store, but for everything he needed during the year the renter paid cash.

At the close of the season he had a fine crop on hand and plenty of money in sight, The rent was paid in full, and he solicited another year's lease from his landlord,
"You can't rent from me no more," said the landlord. "I'm done with you for good."
"Didn't I pay you for all I got?" asked the negro, "and ain't I ready to pay you in advance for another year?"

"That's just where the trouble comes in," replied the landlord, "You're too fond of payin' cash. What I want in my business is a nigger that farms on credit!"—Atlanta Constitution,

Those Mormon Elders.

Editors Intelligencer: What shall we do with them? The question naturally arises, what right have we to do anything with them but to treat them with respect so long as they do not interfere with our rights? Do tue laws of our country give to its citizens the right to persecute any be the word of God? If so, why are there have the right to punish a man because his faith is not as our faith, why not reduce the different denominations to one faith and practice? Lat's be consistant. Let's cleanse ourselves of the many evils that exist among us that are damnable as can be found on the earth. And even then we would not be justifiable in punishing any man because of his faith, so long as he did not injure any one else. I mean physically or financially. And if we are chil-dren of the living God why need we fear any evils? Can the combined world, with all its powers, separate us from the love of our Heevenly Father? I am persuaded not. No, sir, I believe it is wrong to per-secute any man for his faith. Did Christ so teach his deciples? If so, will some one point it to me, either by example or precept? Did he not teach his deciples to love even their enemies, and to pray for those who despitefully used them? Will we ever Christianize the world by the use f carnal weapons? Nay, verily, but only by the use of the sword of the Spirit, which is love, can we ever expect to take the world for Christ. Love, wh'o's prompts us to deeds of kindness, is the way o sucneed in winning souls to Christ, who said "I am the way, the truth, and the life, follow me," Paul said "if ye have not the Spirit of Christ ye are none of his." Well, what was the Spirit of Christ? Was it not love? Yes We see him doing good to all men wherever he found opportunity. He was a man of great sympathy for the suffering humanity, consequently he told his deciples "if thine enemy hunger feed own weight, as for instance when the shedow of any him, and if he thirst give him drink," and again be said be careful to interiain strangers, for by so doing some have entertain-Now, to reason toe matter a little far-ther, I would ask for a consideration of our own Missionaries who have gone to what we believe heathen lands for the purpose

Well, those Mormon Elders are scting on the same principle of our own freight. Missionaries, and shall we treat them with contempt and feel a clear conscience, while we condemn others for doing the same to our M ssionaries? I say, again, let's be consistant. Let's treat those fellows just as we would have our Missionaries treated our land we should treat them as citizens. We have the word of God to read, and we other Gospel than that which we have heard. We need not believe it. It may be that God has sent them. Who can tell? Then I say again we had best treat them would feel a clear conscience. Don't you think so, dear reader? Well, I'll leave the subject for you to ponder in your mind

Remember, we shall all have to account for our stewardship on earth. So let's be mercifu', that we may obtain S. W. S. Remember, we shall all have to give an Bad News from the Klondyke.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 10.-The Examiner prints an extra edition containing the following news from Dawson OTTER POINT, B. C., September 10 .-The steamer Cleveland has arrived from St. Michael's, bringing with her from the Yukon gold fields a story of distress and disaster. The miners she has on board and the officers in charge of the ship tell the story of the suffering at Dawason. The winter has just set in at the mining city of the frozen North, and the two great stores of the place have closed their doors, for they have neithing to sell. These loors, for they have nothing to sell. Those who have been been seeking gold must now seek food or starve. While there may be a tendency to exaggerate the actual condition of affairs, there can be no question that famine threatens the men and women who made their way to the Klondyke. Hundreds of inruly spirits are flocking to Dawson.

Threats of violence are being made on every side. The first signs of winter are apprent on the Yukon, which is beginning to freeze, and in a few weeks will be closed. Enormous prices are now being paid for food at Dawson, and it is impossible that more than four vessels with provisions can reach Dawson before the provisions can reach Dawson before the river is a mass of ice.

On the Cleveland there are thirty-eight passengers, men, women and children, who have come from Dawson City. There are few miners in this party that are able to tell of prosperity. Most of them wish to exaggerate their possessions, and if one were to believe the stories they tell he would say the treasure ship in which they with each bar a 10c. spool of the best Silk. One barrel of Tea Spoons to go at 1c. per set. One fair, legitimate profit is all we want and all we expect would say the treasure ship in which they come carries five million dollars. Capt. Hall, master of the Cleveland, says that he has $100,000 in his safe. The purser be-lieves that he can account for $150,000 on

The Cleveland has some of the passengers of the P. B. Weare on board. The Weare left Dawson City in time to con-nect with the Portland, had she not met with a mishap and struck on the flats above Circle City. They report that on July 25 the stores of the Alaska Commer-Trading and Transportation Company announced that they had no more food to sell. Three weeks before that the same companies were unable to furnish outfits and when the announcement was made that no more goods were available, con-sternation resulted on the part of the people of Dawson, with gold seekers piling in at the rate of twenty to thirty a day Drunkenness, gambling and disorder were rampant, and conservative observers predict the most serious consequen-ces. There is gold everywhere, but the people of Dawson want food more than hey want gold now, At St. Michael's there are not enough structures to ac-commodate the crowd, and scores of people are living in tents. If fortune favors four vessels will be able to reach Dawson from St. Michael's before the Yukon River freezes. They will carry provisions but it is by no means certain that they will reach the Klondyke. They offer the only hope, however, for a renewal of sup-plies. Notice to Contractors. n August 28 the Excelsion left St. treasure amounted to one million dol HE contract for the erection of the City Hall of Anderson will be let to lars, but there are none on the Cleveland who can verify this assertion. The Excelsior was caught on the dangerous flats he lowest bidder on Monday, 20th Septem ber. The City Council reserves the 11ght to reject any or all the bids. For twenty years I have been afflicted ith incontinuence of urine, so much so urinal night and day. The disagreeable associations, to say nothing of the accompanying pains in the back, difficult and painful micturation and general weak-ness, rendered my life miserable. I have been taking Dr. Hobbs Sparagus Pills but three days, and yesterday, March 15, 1897, is the first time in ten years that the urinal has been cast aside. I did not wear it the whole day; the pain was gone rination was natural, and I felt so good that I feel your medicine to me was worth its weight in gold. GEO. W. Again claims our Attention after a few weeks rest, and to her reign we must now submit.

We should not begrudge her the attention, for she has been unusually kind this season in bringing back the Standard Materials in beautiful new shades. Soft, light-weight Wool Goods predominate. Fine Whip Cords, in black and colors, Pingalines, Canvas Cloths, Vigarots, Drab 'Etes, Granite weaves and other Goods too numerous to mention.

Those pretty Plaids and Roman Stripes have her seal of approval, and for those beautiful shades of Browns, Greens, Reds and Blues, which came in Plain as well as Plaids and Stripes, we should be especially grateful. For all of these we have Trimmings to suit, and you should bear in mind that with these a touch of black is indispensable.

We have the Satins, the Braids, the Buttons, the Buckles and all the little things necessary to make the toilette complete and stylish.

We also wish to mention that heretofore we have had one good Dress Maker, but she has secured the assistance of another most excellent Modiste, and from now we will have two of the best Mantua-Makers to be found in upper South Carolina. Come and let them help select the Dress, and they will be sure to give you a becoming, stylish, up-to-date
